

Seeking Our Self within the Three Worlds of the Andean Mystical Tradition

Join Sandy for an experiential workshop where you will be guided through your individual landscape within the Pacha. The native Q'ero of Peru teach that all life, all dimensions, that we are conscious or unconscious of, are populated by 'living Spirit'. Each of the three worlds of the Andean Mystical tradition is unique unto its self, and unique unto you. They have been defined as the Ukha Pacha (lower world), Kay Pacha (everyday world), and Hanaq Pacha (upper world). Working in the subtle and vital energies you will meet the teachers, aspects or beings that work with you and are always available to you. They assist you in 'awakening to consciousness.' In all ancient traditions, the most important part of our Earthwalk is the opportunity to walk as a conscious human being. To be conscious of our Self is to awaken to the internal, external and transcendental connections always available to us. To be conscious is to practice with and within these connections.
